THIRDFLOOR SOFTWARE WORKS. An Application Service Provider based in Sydney Australia, our team started as an informal alliance of software developers in 1995 to solve emerging online technology issues. Progressing through the late 90's "internet boom" in the USA - building large scale magazine web sites, content management systems, and "cyber cafés" for business events, we now provide service and support to Market Intelligence Newsletters, Organizations and Associations, and Magazine Publishers. Thirdfloor occupies the technology corner of the "Editorial - Design - Technology" required to manage publications online, and has developed close working relationships with web design firms internationally.
